Senator Fulbright To Deliver Charge to Graduating Class

Senator J. William Fulbright, Democrat of Arkansas, will deliver the charge to the Hamilton College graduating class at Commencement exercises here June 8, President Robert W. McEwen announced Tuesday. The Senator, whose name is linked to the Fulbright Act which established an exchange program for American and foreign students, will receive the degree of Doctor of Laws, one of six honorary degrees which the college will award.

Paul F. Sanders, the president of the Foreign Press Association, will address the annual alumni luncheon on Saturday, June 7, and receive an honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters at the graduation exercises the following day.

Sanders is the United Nations correspondent of Het Parool (The Password), the Amsterdam, Holland, newspaper. He began writing for it when it was an underground publication during the Nazi occupation.

Other Candidates

Other candidates for honorary degrees are: the Reverend Arthur W. Meilke, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Syracuse, N. Y., Doctor of Divinity; Dr. Farncis E. Mineka, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences of Cornell University and a Hamilton alumnus, class of 1929, Doctor of Letters; Judge Irwin Untermyer of New York City, a trustee of the Metropolitan Museum of Art and a former justice of the state Supreme Court, Doctor of Laws; and Stephen W. Royce, of Pasadena, Calif., where he is president of the Hunting Hotel Company and of the Pasadena-Sheraton Corporations, Doctor of Laws. Royce is also a Hamilton alumnus, '14, and a former trustee of the college.

Continuing a practice begun in 1956, the principal Commencement address will be given by a member of the graduating class. The Commencement speaker this year will be Richard L. Purple, who was nominated by his classmates and elected by the faculty.

Senator Fulbright, who will give the charge to the graduates, is the chairman of the Senate's Banking and Currency Committee in this, his third term in the upper house. He previously served one term as a representative and has also been an attorney for the U. S. Government, a business man, a university president and a Rhodes Scholar. He holds bachelor's degrees from the University of Arkansas and Oxford University and a master's degree from Oxford. He received his law degree from George Washington University.

Sponsors Peace Resolution

In addition to his chairmanship of the banking and currency committee, the Senator serves on the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee. During his one term in the House, he sponsored the "Fulbright Resolution" calling for a system of collective security to maintain world peace, which passed the House in 1943 prior to the organization of the United Nations.

Newsman Paul Sanders has long been a student of the fine arts and was, in fact, a successful composer before becoming a music critic, which was his occupation at the outbreak of the Second World War. During the war, he joined the Dutch resistance movement and wrote extensively for underground publications, including Het Parool. He joined the staff of that newspaper as art editor on the day of Holland's liberation, his assignment to the U. S. and the United Nations coming in 1947. He recently became the first man to be re-elected president of the Foreign Press Association, a 250-member body including correspondents from 49 countries.

Syracuse Pastor

The Rev. Mr. Meilke, who was graduated from the Yale Divinity School in 1936, has held pastorates in Cooperstown, Middletown and, since 1945, Syracuse. He has been Moderator of the Syracuse Presbytery and chairman of the Committee on Ministerial Relations of the Synod of New York. He is now a member of the Permanent Judicial Commission of the Synod and of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education.

Dean Mineka has been on the Cornell University faculty since 1946, serving as chairman of the department of English from 1948 until his appointment as Dean last year. He is currently engaged in editing the letters of John Stuart Mill.

Royce, a graduate of the New York Law School, has been engaged in hotel management since 1921. Four years ago, he sold his Huntington Hotel in Pasadena to the Sheraton Corporation, for which he now acts as general manager. He is the only Hamilton alumnus who has played major league baseball, having been a member of the New York Giants in 1914, the year of his graduation from Hamilton.

Supreme Court Judge

Until his resignation from the bench in 1945, Judge Untermyer served in the Special and Trial terms of the State Supreme Court, in the Appelate term of that court, and in the Appelate division of the First Judicial Department. A graduate of Columbia University and of the NYU Law School, he was admited to practice before the U.S. Supreme Court in 1929. Judge Untermyer has long been engaged in the acquisition of works of art, of which he has an extensive collection. In addition to serving as a trustee of the Metropolitan Museum, he is on the advisory Board of the Fine Arts Division of NYU.

Review Coming

A Continental review will be published in the next issue.

Social Infractions May Be Reported To Senate Group

The Student Senate Monday evening unanimously amended its new social rules to permit the reporting of violations to any member of the student Judiciary Committee as well as to the Associate Dean.

Formerly, infractions of the Senate social rules could be reported to the Associate Dean only. The amendment will now go to the Faculty Committee on Student Activities for approval.

In other business, the Senate gave treasurer Rick Hatch permission to write a check up to $100 to cover Biology Club expenses in obtaining Dr. Ferris of Philadelphia for a lecture. Hatch said that expenses would probably total $75, of which the Senate would pay about $50 and the college lecture committee about $25. Any balance will be remitted to the Senate treasury.

Senate president Art Melius conveyed a request from Mr. Sidney Bennett, Secretary of Admission, requesting that three houses extend membership and provide board for three foreign students who will be attending Hamilton next year from France, the Netherlands, and Scotland. The College will pay all other expenses of these students; the individual fraternities are responsible for board only.

Treasurer Hatch asked that all student organizations wishing Senate funds next year submit their budgets by Sunday noon to Dave Burner, Paul Goetz, or himself, or leave them in the Senate mailbox in Root Hall.

Melius reported that the Italian foster child whom Hamilton has sponsored had been adopted by a private party. The Foster Parents Plan has now selected a Korean boy for Hamilton to sponsor. Melius displayed a letter from the Korean child and suggested that the Senate secretary write back.

The Senate unanimously voted to continue the Student Senate scholarship. Each house must submit $1 per member for the scholarship.

Melius noted that a recent report of the Deferred Rushing Committee specified the appointment of a committee of three by the Senate president to help select advisors for the freshman dormitory. Melius selected Dave McMillan, as chairman of the Deferred Rushing Committee and a freshman advisor; Tim Scholl, as next year's Senate president; and himself, as retiring president.

Melius also announced that Scholl would take office Apr. 28. He asked that each social group elect

Burke, Murdock, Storm Appointed Editors at Publication Board Dinner

Editors for next year's publication were announced at the Publications Board banquet at Psi U Wednesday night, April 9. Editorial appointments were Dan Murdock for the Spectator, Ken Burke for the Hamiltonian and Dick Storm for the Continental. The appointment of Ted Smith as business manager of student publications was also announced.

The speaker at the banquet was Mr. Paul Williams, former editor of the Utica Daily Press and Hamilton graduate in the class of 1908 .

Following the announcement of his appointment by retiring editor Steve Hoffman, Murdock announced his appointments to the Spectator staff. They are John Naylor and David Nagy, senior editors; Lindsley Schepmoes, managing editor; John Andrews, news editor; Leo Winiraski, sports editor; Peter Haug, feature editor; David Eastham, circulation editor; and Dick Schuman, staff photographer.

Murdock, a member of ELS, was first associated with the Spectator in his sophomore year as a reporter. Last April he was elevated to the post of news editor.

Burke, appointed by Hack Khett, announced six appointees to next year's Hamiltonian staff. Tom Putnam is the new associate editor. Penn Watson, sports editor; Ward Wettlaufer, senior editor; Tim Hutchins, social editor; Terry Meyer, photography editor; and Jim Miller, activities editor.

Burke, also a member of ELS, started working on the Hamiltonian as staff writer. In his sophomore year he was appointed faculty editor and this year he has served as senior editor.

Storm, who is president of the College Literary Society and a member of Theta Delt, declined to name appointees to the literary board of the Continental at the banquet. Retiring Editor Dick Stevens made the appointment. The members of the board will be chosen and announced in September, he added later.

Williams became editor of the Utica Daily Press in 1932 and served in that capacity for 26 years prior to his retirement in 1957. In his speech entitled The Joys of Journalism, he included some anecdotes about his trade, and some advice for men aspiring to journalism.

Williams pointed out that a liberal arts education was the best prerequisite for a reporting job and that, contrary to popular belief, a concentration in English literature "as such" was not necessary. He went on to say that a knowledge of economics and a grounding in the sciences were useful to reporters.

Long To Keynote Class Day Fetes; Subject Classics

Prof. Herbert Long of the Classical Languages Department will be the principal speaker at the annual Class and Charter Day exercises, Wednesday, May 21, at 10:30 a.m. in the Chapel.

The subject of Long's address will be The Classical Tradition at Hamilton College in the 19th Century. The speech will describe some of the men who taught Latin and Greek at Hamilton in the 19th century and the classical curriculum one hundred years ago, Long said Friday.

Other events planned for the day include a faculty - student baseball game following the Chapel exercises, various interclass games in the afternoon and the Interclass Sing in the evening. Classes will met during the first and second periods before the chapel assembly.

Phi Beta Kappa Elects 8 Members

Eight seniors have been elected to the College's chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, the national honorary scholastic society. The selections were announced last Tuesday in Chapel by Prof. C. Stanley Oglivy.

The eight men selected brings to nine the number named to the honorary society this year. Alan D. Fuller was elected last fall on the basis of three years' work.

The new selections are: Paul J. Goetz, Philip K. Hooper, Paul D. Leber, Robert L. Miller, Richard L. Purple, John F. Stanton, Arnold V. Talentino, and Brent M. Wedding.

The place and time of the induction of electees will be announced at a later date, Oglivy said Wednesday

Was Los Taps Two Sophomores

Was Los tapped two more sophomores at the last two Tuesday Chapel assemblies. Tim Norbeck was tapped Apr. 8 and Chuck Colton Apr. 15.

Norbeck, a member of Sigma Phi, was president of his freshman class and has played on both the soccer and the hockey teams. Last year he was a member of DT.

Colton, a member of the Chapel Board and the SCA, has played on the soccer team for two years. Last fall he was in charge of solicitation for the Campus Fund. A member of Alpha Delt, Colton is on the Spectator staff and was a member of DT last year.

Direction Excels Acting

Reviewer Appraises Student Drama

by Thomas Kunichica

The Charlatans presented two student - written one - act plays and the second act of Samuel Beckett's Waiting for Godot last Thursday and Friday evenings.

The two student - written plays were disappointing, for they were neither original nor well-done. The Beckett excerpt was encouraging to see, for the performance was an indication that the Charlatans are capable of producing good drama well.

The first of the three plays, You Can't Climb with a Clip-on, by William Poole, is a short drama about a young college boy about to leave his home for an evening of dancing with a social set obviously above his own.

The clip-on is a tie, Hedgie Clark's symbol of what a "polite" and monied society is not. He rejects the clip-on, for he wishes to climb the social ladder, has just enough of a taste of the "snotty crowd" and not enough education to see some of the superficialities of that crowd.

Hackneyed Theme

The theme is an old one, and in this case it is not well used. The performance of the first evening was a near disaster. Henry Hyde, as Hedgie Clark, was uncertain of his lines and constant repetition of lines made the play drag. The performance of the second evening was a great improvement.

Throughout both performances, we were impressed with the remarkable restraint Poole must have exerted on himself to refrain from using the vast reservoir of Anglo-Saxon to which he must have access. It is true that profanity can be used on the stage with great effect, but Poole's use of smutty language was somewhat excessive and detracted from the rest of his script.

Henry Hyde's performances were uneven both evenings. We could never feel that he was master of his lines. He seemed to be surer of himself Friday evening, but was never fully convincing.

Praises Shoninger

Mrs. Judy Clark, the drunken, neurotic mother, was played by Mrs. Shoninger, without whom the play would have been devastatingly devoid of any virtues. Mrs. Shoninger is a fine actress; her portrayal of vacillating emotions and insensitivity was the finest bit of acting in the play.

Thomas Bailey as Mr. Bill Clark, the father, gave a good if not entirely convincing performance. He seemed unable to cope with the liberal portion of curses alloted to him by the author.

Terry Hayes as Sid Terry was wooden and he failed to emphasize Sid Terry's roughness and lack of refinement. Audrey McClinchie, William deHaven, and William Poole, members of Hedgie Clark's imaginary interlude, were adequate in Poole's most successful device, a sort of dream-pantomine.

It is a credit to Parker, the director, that he managed to impart some atmosphere and feeling into the play. His set and effects were generally good, and the improvements he made for the second evening bordered the miraculous.

The two performances of the second act of Beckett's Waiting for Godot were excellent, and in our opinion, they rank with the finest productions the Charlatans have done in the past few years.

Walter W. Smyth, the director, accomplished the difficult task of successfully presenting a play which is difficult to present to any kind of an audience. His translation of Beckett from script to stage was noteworthy. We can hope for a quality the Charlatans have been lacking, if Smyth continues to work as well in the future.

Beckett's play, as amusing as it is, is filled with depression and utter futility. The degeneration of thought and purpose in the dialogue are devastating.

Romans, Moses Excel

Arthur Romans as Vladimir and Gerard Moses as Estragon gave the outstanding performances of both evenings. Romans has never acted as well before, and both his performances were uniformly good. If the Charlatans can boast of a star at all, after his interpretation of Vladimir, Romans deserves that billing.

Moses, unlike Romans did not give uniform performances both evenings, and we must favour his acting of Thursday, which was brilliant. Nevertheless, he seemed not at all the newcomer to the stage, but an experienced and well qualified actor.

Miller Realistic

Not much can be said about Louis Miller who played Lucky. We can only say with praise that he was genuinely horrifying. A completely silent role is difficult, especially if it requires the ghastly effect called for by Beckett. Mller was truly revolting.

Pozzo was portrayed well by Charles Starkweather. But a blind man is hard to portray by the sighted, and Starkweather occasionally succumbed to his vision. Moreover, we are not certain that Smyth needed an accent for Starkweather.

Timothy Hall was a boy and had a thankless but necessary role which he performed dutifully.

The last of the three plays was Alto Ride, written and directed by John Nelson. Nelson, like Poole, used a hackneyed theme—one used so much that it no longer has any appeal unless extraordinarily written. Nelson is not an extraordinary writer.

Addiction to narcotics has been written about time and time again. We would not have objected to Nelson's use of the subject had we not felt that we had heard or read the same things many times before.

SCA Double-Feature

Dave McMillan, president of the SCA, has announced that the SCA will sponsor a discussion and talk on Alcohol by Dr. Newton Bigelow, director of Marcy State hospital and former commissioner of health in New York State, at 8:30 o'clock, Sunday evening after Chapel at Alpha Delta Phi.

Honor Court Forum

The Honor Court has announced that an open forum will be held in the Chapel Tuesday night at 9 o'clock to discuss the proposed constitutional ammendment.

Wanted: Student Concern

A SPECTATOR EDITORIAL February 28 requested "intelligent" suggestions concerning the proposed extension of the Honor System. Perhaps debate on total opportunity rushing forced the Court proposal into the background. At any rate, no suggestions were received.

In January 1956 an amendment similar to the one now proposed was defeated amid cries of "railroad" tactics on the part of the Court. The present Court is making every effort possible to ellicit student criticism. There has not been, nor will there be, we are sure, any "railroading."

Unconcern for this, perhaps the most important proposal in the forty-five year history of the Honor System, is no longer excusable. The student body ought to consider and discuss, acknowledge or refute the arguments in defense of the amendment which the Court offers in the following "open letter."

Proposal Defended

The HONOR SYSTEM at present is incomplete and inconsistent. It is incomplete because all work is not covered under the Honor System Constitution; it is inconsistent in that some written work is covered and some is not. If possible, we should complete the Honor System and remove the inconsistency as best we can. The proposed amendment has this purpose.

Discussions with student groups have raised a number of questions and a number of doubts about the values and the pitfalls of the amendment. First, there seems to be some doubt as to the practical functioning of the amendment. In the second draft of the amendment, we have added a section which calls for a two-year trial period. During these two years, the student body will be able to judge the value of the amendment.

There is doubt concerning papers in which student collaboration is encouraged. As a result, another statement has been added to the original amendment which makes it necessary for each instructor to make clear exactly how the constitution applies in his course. Before any case of reported fraud can be tried, the Honor Court must determine that the instructor has properly met his obligation in this respect. This clearly places the decision as to whether a case is valid in the hands of the Honor Court, not the faculty.

It must be emphasized that carclessness is not fraud! A student who forgets a quotation mark or a footnote here or there may be careless, but he is not guilty of fraud and would certainly not be liable for Honor Court action. In any case that has never come before the Honor Court, even the smallest doubt has proved sufficient to bring about a verdict of acquittal. This always has been (for 45 years) and always will be the case. Fraud is usually a very obvious thing. You know it when you see it. When you don't know it, it is not called fraud. And in that event, no grounds exist for Honor Court action.

Some have expressed fears that the writing of term papers under this new amendment will necessitate a vast number of footnotes and reference sources not required before. This is not so. It is a rare idea that is wholly original. A good paper must necessarily use a number of other people's ideas. Consequently, then, fraud is concerned almost exclusively with verbiage. The number of footnotes need not be as enormous as some have supposed and certainly not in excess of the demands of good composition practice.

A question has been raised about outlines for oral reports. When an outline for an oral report is submitted to an instructor as part of the report and is to be graded as such, it would naturally come under the tenets of the Honor System. If the outline is not submitted, it is not subject to the jurisdiction of the constitution.

If there are further questions or doubts, it is hoped that the Court will have the opportunity to consider and answer them either in the open forum this Tuesday night, at 9, in the Chapel, before student groups or individuals.

It is hoped that serious consideration is being given to this proposal. In order that the Honor System may be complete and consistent, the passing of this amendment (in its final form) is both logical and desirable.

The Honor Court

Elect Chapel Board Officers

Bruce Geer will be chairman of the Chapel Board next year, Art Melius, retiring chairman, announced Monday night at the annual Chapel Congregation banquet. Other officers for next year's Board which were elected by the Chapel Board are Ted Smith, secretary, and Ron Petrou, treasurer.

At the banquet the Chapel Congregation elected 17 members of the student body and five members of the faculty to the Board. Re-elected from the student body were Tim Scholl, Don Spencer, Ward Wettlaufer, Tom Putnam, John Andrews, Chuck Colton and Art Skidmore.

New members are Bill Bonwitt, Art Romans, Jim Arnold, Bob Baldwin, Tom Christensen, John Ellis, Tim Hall, Bill Mattern, Henry Pinkerton and Otis Thornhill.

Newly elected faculty members are Profs. Rober R. Carson, Earl W. Count, Thomas McN. Johnston, Willard B. Marsh and John H. Jacobson, Jr.

Dave McMillan reported during the banquet on plans for Chapel Board seminars to be held during April and May. He announced that next Monday night at 8 p.m. Profs. Walter N. Hess and George L. Nesbitt will discuss Lionel Trilling's essay, Dr. Kinsey in America at Chi Psi.

Rev. George Bielby, associate professor of religion at Wells College, was the guest speaker at the banquet. Bielby is a Hamilton DKE, Class of 1938. He attended Union Theological Seminary after graduating from Hamilton.

HERE AND THERE

by DAVID NAGY

The balmy weather may be a mere hoax, but Spring is definitely here to stay. The fountain is once again a real fountain, the exam schedule is out, the campus dogs are eyeing each other across newly planted trees and the Bermuda Boys have unveiled an exceptionally boney collection of knees.

A few weeks back, if you'll recall, Here and There cited an article from the Wells College Grapevine that cast mysterious aspirsions on the honor of the Hamilton Gentleman. Don't despair. A few days after the recent Hamilton-Radcliffe choir concert, the Dean received a letter from a Radcliffe undergraduate that may give us new hope. It said, in part, "The manners of the Hamilton College undergraduate are so superior that they make Harvard students appear like Neanderthal men." The defense rests.

The announcement of the final exam schedule may come as a shock to those of us who are still wondering about what happened last semester. Long after all thoughts of that period have been bravely forgotten, however, this gem of scholarly excellence should live on in the hearts of the French Department.

Seems that the professors thought they would give the students a little bonus on the French 21 final by asking them to identify Morris Bishop, who is the editor of the only text used in that course, and whose name appears on the cover, the title page and in a number of footnotes. One student thought Bishop was a friend of Voltaire's, another the new Premier of France and several identified him as a classmate. So far as we know, none of these answers received any credit.

Meanwhile, back in the realm of the Neanderthals, Yale has instituted a new teacher-training program that will allow coeds from Smith and Vassar to take their senior and a year of post-graduate work toward a masters in education on the New Haven campus. Commenting on this (with a straight face, we presume), a perceptive reporter for the Wellesley News noted, "With about seven thousand male students at Yale, the favorable ratio might induce many a miss to go into teaching." That's what it's supposed to do, all right.

We Didn't Realize It, But . . . Dept. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, the man on the cover of Time magazine's April 7 issue, is a Hamilton graduate, class of '21. The Time reporter quoted Dr. Fry, who is the President of the World Lutheran Federation and one of the most respected men in international protestantism today, as saying that, in college, his religious activities "Consisted of playing pool at the Y.M.C.A." Offering his own explanation, Dr. Fry remarked, "Hamilton's undifferentiated protestantism didn't appeal to me." Amen.

U of R, Hamilton Choirs To Give Concert Tonight

The University of Rochester Women's Chorus, directed by Dr. Ward Woodbury, will present a joint concert with the Hamilton Choir at 8:30 p.m. Friday night in the Gymnasium, choir director John Baldwin said Monday. The Hamilton Brass Ensemble will also be featured in the program.

Budapest Te Deum by Hungarian composer Kodaly will be the joint work of the two groups and will be directed by Dr. Woodbury. Soloists will include William Smith, tenor, and Richard Storm, baritone. The program, Baldwin said, will also include a group of sixteenth century motets and selections from both serious and secular music.

The Hamilton Brass Ensemble, under the leadership of Sophomore William Smith, will present a selection of fanfares. Ceremonial Music for Charles II by Mathiew Locke will be its main presentation, Baldwin said.

Members of the ensemble include Smith, Craig Pritchard, Jerry Walsh, Jim Arnold, Doug Kirkpatrick, Christian Mazzola, Lynwood Sinnamon and Bill Wieting.

Dr. Woodbury, Baldwin said, first heard the Choir sing in 1955 and was so enthusiastic that he wanted to get together for a joint program between Hamilton and Rochester as soon as possible.

The Women's Chorus, Baldwin said, has an excellent reputation and the program, which is open to the general public, should be a very entertaining one.

The Gymnasium, he said, will be decorated for the concert by Ted Hand after a scheme conceived by Dick Stephens for the posters and brochures with which the Choir advertised concerts this spring.

A collection will be taken at the concert to cover the transportation expenses of the Women's Chorus, Baldwin said.

Dean Announces 6 Dorm Advisors

Associate Dean Sidney Wertimer announced yesterday the appointment of six freshman dormitory advisors for the academic year 1958-59. Six additional advisors were appointed for the second semester of next year when the new freshman dormitory will be ready for occupancy.

Advisors appointed for the academic year are Peter Marcy, Daniel Murdock, John Naylor, Thomas Roberts, Howard Rosen and Arthur Skidmore. The six will live in South Dormitory during the first semester.

Six sophomores were chosen as advisors for the second semester. They are John Allen, Edmund Chaitman, Stephen Downey, Peter Haug, William Pearson and Samuel Townsend.

A committee of three Student Senate members and Deans Wertimer and Winton Tolles selected the 12 advisors from 33 applicants. Student members of the committee, appointed by Senate President Melius Monday evening, were Melius, David McMillan and Timothy Scholl.

Sixth Parents Weekend Scheduled for April 26

The Sixth Annual Hamilton Parents Weekend will be next weekend, Apr. 26-27. Bruce Bartlett, Ted Smith and Rick Hatch are in charge of the planning of the student-run weekend. Because in 1956 accommodations for parents were limited, the policy of not inviting senior parents, initiated last year, has been continued this year.

The schedule of events for Parents' Weekend as stated in President McEwen's invitational letter to the parents is as follows: Parents are invited to attend any classes Saturday morning. If any parents wish to meet faculty, appointments should be made by students for this purpose.

The parents are requested to register between 9 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Saturday in the Gymnasium. Lunch for parents Saturday will be served in the Gymnasium at 12:30 at which time President McEwen will officially welcome the parents.

At 2 p.m. the track team will meet with Oswego, the golf team will play Harpur and the tennis team will play Ithaca. The baseball team will begin its game against Stevens at 2:30. The lacrosse team will be at Middlebury.

In the event that these events are rained out, there will be an organ recital by John Baldwin at 3 p.m. in the Chapel. The President will hold a reception in the Library at 4:30. All students, parents and faculty are invited.

The parents will have dinner at their sons' fraternity houses or at Commons. Saturday evening at 8:30 the Annual Inter-Fraternity Sing will take place in the Chapel. Sunday Chapel will be held at 11 a.m.

The last formal event of the weekend will be dinner Sunday at the fraternities and Commons. In addition to these events there will be a display of colored slides of the campus by William J. Pritchard, college photographer, in the Library.

All the times listed for Saturday are Eastern Standard Time and for Sunday are Daylight Saving Time.

Miller To Preach

Dean Colin Miller will speak on the Fifth Beatitude, Blessed are the Merciful, Sunday night in the Chapel.

Chi Psi Elects

Chi Psi election of officers for the remainder of this year and the first semester of next year were held recently.

Results are: Tony Alcaro, president; Baldy Moore, vice president; and Bill Haines, secretary.

Skip Andrews was elected treasurer and Dan Langan, steward.

FFS To Present Italian La Strada

La Strada will be the next presentation of the Foreign Films Society and will be shown Apr. 24, 25 and 26 in the Chemistry Auditorium at 8 p.m.

The picture stars Giulietta Masina, Anthony Quinn, Richard Basehart and Aldo Silvani. It tells the story of a simple-minded waif, a brutish strong-man and a philosophical "fool" who travel the highway in Italy.

Stickmen Beat Hofstra Twice

Picture by Dick Schumann

GOALIE CLEARS — Bob Sanderson, freshman goalie, clears the ball in a lacrosse scrimmage Saturday while John Sampson offers opposition. The third player is unidentified.

The Continental Lacrosse team won both its scrimmages with the Hofstra freshmen during the squad's Spring vacation trip to Long Island. An additional contest with Adelphi College was cancelled.

It was the first time that the Hillmen have beaten the Hofstra aggregation whose varsity is one of the leading lacrosse powers in the nation.

In its tenth year as part of the official varsity athletic program, the squad faces the Syracuse Lacrosse Club here tomorrow afternoon in a practice game. Scheduled games begin Apr. 25, when the team faces Union away and travels to Middlebury the following Saturday on a week-end trip. The records against the Dutchmen and the Vermontmen are 3-6 and 8-3, respectively.

Co-captains Bill Hoyt and John Driscoll head a squad of 10 lettermen including attackmen Dick Alofs, Neal Brown, George Holbrook and Pete Strawbridge; midfielders Roger Killion, Earl Rickerson and Dick Russell; and Tom Perkins in the goal. There are 28 other members on the squad including 11 freshmen newcomers.

Commenting on the scrimmages at Hofstra and the team in general, Coach Chip Hunter stated that he was pleased with individual scoring ability and individual defense performances. The team, he said, will play a different style of game than that seen on the Hill in recent years. Hunter is also faced with the happy dilemma of not being able to select a starting lineup as yet, because of the depth of the squad.

The stickmen play their first home game May 5 against Cortland State Teachers College.

Hill Moundsmen To Encounter Hobart In Season's Opener on Wednesday

The Hamilton baseball team will open its 1958 season against Hobart College here on the Hill next Wednesday. The game will be at 4:30 p.m.

Coach Greg Batt, commenting Tuesday, said that he is not certain of the whole starting line up for the opener. Since the team did not get a chance to practice outside before last Monday, Batt said that it is hard to judge some of the freshmen until he has seen them on the diamond.

In the pitching department, Batt said that he can depend on several veterans including Bob Kliphon, Bill Jones and Pete Ensor. He will also be watching the development of freshmen Dick Mann, Dick Blessing and Dick Perkins in the outdoor workouts this week.

Behind the plate Batt will use sophomore Don DiGuilian and senior Art Melius.

There is a close race for the starting positions at both first and second bases. Freshmen Al Ahrens and Doug Kirkpatrick are both being considered for first, while freshman Jim Fanning and Sophomore Pogo Collins are in a close race for the second base position, Batt said.

Scott Finegan, who was switched from first base, will be starting at short stop, and captain Mike Slattery at third will complete the infield.

Norm Daily will be starting in left field and Joe Nicolette will take the center field position. Either Rick Purple or Marty Hirsch in right field will complete the line up.

Batt said that so far this year the team has shown a great deal of hustle and drive. He commented that the team is a promising one and the members look forward to a good season. He added that the team still needed some practise at fielding and batting outdoors.

Deke, Alpha Delt, Squires, Capture Intramural Play

In Intramural action last week, Delta Kappa Epsilon won first place in both the squash and badmitten tournaments. Squires managed to beat out Alpha Delt for second place in badmitten, while ADP took the runner up spot in squash.

The only championships yet to be decided are in spring tennis, spring golf, ping pong, track and softball. With good weather next week, the softball competition will start Monday, Apr. 28. The track meet is scheduled for the middle of May and the ping pong, tennis and golf tournaments should be played during the first week in May.

Tennis, Golf Teams Start Season Apr. 26

A week from tomorrow, Apr. 26, the Hamilton tennis and golf teams will open their seasons before a parents weekend crowd.

The tennis team is faced with a particularly difficult task because of the unexpected loss of Captain Craig Henzel and veteran Phil Lord. As a result, Coach Mox Weber has been forced to change his plans for the coming season by moving his four returning lettermen, Tim Smelzer, Chris Ravndal, Jerry Dirvin and Don Kittell into higher competitive brackets than they would normally have played in.

The team is further handicapped by the lack of customary depth that has so often been the Continentals' source of strength in recent years. The two outstanding lower classmen at this time are Mike Myers, a freshman, and Butch Logan, a sophomore.

Because of the lack of depth, team positions are unsettled at this time. The past week of mild weather has enabled the team to start outdoor practice. At this time, scrimmaging has begun to determine the actual placeemnt of team members of the squad.

At present, Smelzer is rated number one, Ravndal number two, Dirvin third, and Kittell fourth, with Kittell and Smelzer making up one doubles team and probably Ravndal and Dirvin another. Other positions will be determined as a result of the scrimmaging.

The golf team also is benefiting from the recent good weather. The squad has been able to use the comparatively early date. In addition, some members of the team were able to get in some early work outdoors by going South during Spring Vacation. The bulwark of this year's team will once again be Captain Ward Wettlaufer, runner-up in last year's national collegiate open.

The other five positions on the team will be determined by a series of matches among the remaining members of the squad. Those others trying for places are Dick Jackson, Doug Trenner, Bob Wells, Carl Hakanson, Pete Hankin, Bill Rockino, Dick Merklebach, Bob Mongeau, Bill Mattern, Tom Aitken, Gordie Thomas, Paul Kremer, Al Polk and Jerry Walsh.

The team is basically an inexperienced club, but Coach Don Jones hopes to have it ready for the first match with Harpur, Apr. 26.

Senate . . .

its new representative by that time to avoid confusion.

Hal Bruck, chairman of the Elections Committee, arranged for the election of the president of the class of '59 and Senate representatives from the classes of '60 and '61.

Melius reported that Associate Dean Wertimer had extended to Apr. 22 the deadline for submitting lists of men living in fraternity houses.

Dick Alofs and Dave Burner were absent from the meeting. Bill Driscoll substituted for Phil Hooper; James Gillespie, for Dudley Hawkes; Dave Holmlund, for Joel Ingegno; Glenn Hudson, for John Plant; Mike Magzis, for Jack Caldwell; and Al Polk, for Grey Akers.

TIME OUT

by Toby Winiarski

What do fishermen do on their day off? They go fishing naturally. What does the Captain of the Hamilton golf team do over his summer vacation? He plays golf of course.

The captain in question is Ward Wettlaufer and this summer Ward will play in top amateur golf tournaments across the country.

Following exams June 7, 8 and 9, Ward travels to Johnstown, Pennsylvania to compete in The Tournament of Champions. We found out that most of the golfers competing have won amateur tournaments in the past year and although Ward has not won a tournament recently, he was invited because of his golfing reputation.

Following the tournament in Johnstown, Ward boards a plane for the Trans-Mississippi Tournament in Hutchinson, Kansas, on June 15-22. The Trans-Mississippi Tourney will be match play (one opponent at a time in elimination competition). The Johnstown Tournament will be medal play (each man pitted against the whole field).

After playing in Kansas, Ward hustles back east to Williamstown, Massachusetts for the National Intercollegiate Tournament in which he was runner-up last year. The tournament brings together the top college golfers in the country as well as some of the top college teams. Ward pointed out that because the tournament is only over in Massachusetts, (last year it was held in Denver, Colorado), Hamilton should send a team, and perhaps gain a little publicity by doing so.

"Because there is no Tam O'Shanter this year," Ward said, "I will probably play in either the Chicago or Baltimore Opens. The tournaments replace the Tam O'Shanter and will be played in August. The big tournament that I'm pointing for is the National Amateur just before college opens in September," Ward continued. Golfers will remember that in last year's National Amateur, Ward beat Billy Joe Patton before he was eliminated from play.

"What will you be doing when you're not playing in tournaments?" we asked. "Practicing at the Buffalo Country Club under my coach, golf pro George Smith," Ward replied. "I practice mornings, play 18 holes in the afternoons and then practice a little more after that."

We began to wonder what all the practice was for until Ward explained. "Every two years the Walker Cup Tournament is played between the eight best U. S. amateurs and the eight top British Amateurs." (For tennis fans this is the Davis Cup equivalent in golf.) "In the summer of 1959," Ward said, "It will be played in England and I'd like to be a member of our team. To be selected for the team, I've got to make an excellent showing in some of the amateur tournaments between now and then with of course the big tournament being the National Amateur."

Ward is not waiting until this summer to start his tournament play. May 9-11 he journeys over to Yale for the Eastern Intercollegiate Tournament, a smaller version of the National Collegiate he will play in this summer.

We had one final question before we left, "What about your turning pro?" we asked. Ward was quick to reply. "No," he said, "I'd settle for being one of the best amateurs." We wondered as we left if he was far from his goal.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE DANCE — Hamilton students and their dates exhibit various dancing techniques last Saturday night in the Hall of Commons.

History Professor To Teach Course On Asiatic Affairs

President Robert W. McEwen announced early this week the appointment of Edwin Borden Lee, Jr., to the position of instructor in history. Lee will teach a course in Asiatic History. With the addition of Lee, the history department will have four professors.

Lee is a native American and received his A.B. from Duke University in 1945. He then entered the United States Navy and attended the Japanese Language School in 1945. He later was a translator for the occupation forces in Japan. From 1948 until 1952 he studied Asiatic History and Languages at Columbia University Graduate School.

Last year Mr. Lee studied in Japan on a Fulbright grant. He speaks both Japanese and Chinese and he has taught Japanese in Columbia Summer School.

Next year Lee will offer a survey course in Asiatic History, concentrating on India, China and Japan. The course will be open to sophomores, the pre-requisite being History 11-12 or the consent of the department.

Charlatans . . .

Thomas Putnam gave sufficiently overwrought, if not entirely convincing displays of histrionics as Johnny Taylor, the drug addict.

John Moore as the Club Manager was the only member of the cast who really showed signs of encouraging acting. He played his role very well and gave the play the appearance of being drama of some kind and not merely a glorified jazz concert with some dialogue thrown in.

T. Richard Parker as Mr. Bourland also succeeded in communicating his role of the pure businessman, devoid of personal feelings.

At this time we must give Poole and Nelson credit, well deserved credit, for trying. Their efforts show interest in creativity among students.
